Girl Gained 7 Pounds

Nine Years an Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at any druggist's.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength.

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 6 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, after trying almost everything else on the market, she is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why, get your money back.

Lower R. R. Rates To Farmers' Week

Nine Roads Offer Fare-and-One-Half For Round-Trip Tickets—Applies Between February 7 and 13.

The Farmers' Week visitors to the state colleges of agriculture and home economics during the week of February 8 to 13 will have the benefit of reduced railroad fares, says Professor R. H. Wheeler, in charge of arrangements for the college. Nine railroads are cooperating to sell round-trip tickets to Ithaca for one and a half times the price of a one-way ticket.

This means that tickets bought for Ithaca from February 7 to 13 will be sold for the regular price of one plus half the price of the return trip, with a minimum of 25 cents for the round trip. The final return limit to reach the original starting point must be not later than February 15, 1926.

The cooperating railroads and the limitations which they place on this reduced fare are as follows: The Buffalo, Rochester, and Pittsburgh Railroad and the Delaware and Hudson Company agree to this for all points on their lines in New York state, the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad, the Erie Railroad, the New York, Ontario and Western Railroad, the Pennsylvania Railroad, and the West Shore Railroad let this ruling apply to all stations in New York state except New York city, and the Lehigh Railroad accepts the agreement for all stations on their main line and branches between Tunkhannock, Pennsylvania, and Suspension Bridge, New York.

None of these lines include points in Long Island in this arrangement, which is in accordance with the policy followed in previous years.

"THE NEIGHBORS" AT EPWORTH HALL FRIDAY

On Friday evening, January 29, the Dramatic Society of the Epworth League of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church will present Zona Gale's wonderful story of rural life entitled "The Neighbors."

The cast selected to present this play has been working very hard so that it may be worthy of giving to the public the wholesome lesson of service the story contains.

Extremely human; full of good humor; the love of a bashful boy; the sacrifice of one person for another and a lesson that will do us all some good. Such is "The Neighbors."

The Epworth League is paying a large royalty in order to give the public a play that is of a high and uplifting character.

The scenery for this play is receiving its share of consideration and those who are responsible for its construction are not slighting even the smallest detail.

The play will start promptly at 8 o'clock. The cast will be announced later.

SMALL MOUTH BASS INCREASED BY PROTECTION

Albany, Jan. 27.—Many reports have been received by the Conservation Commission from sportsmen in various parts of the state telling of increased numbers of young small-mouth bass observed in various waters already inhabited by this species. The sudden increase is attributed wholly to the extending of the closed season until July 1, thereby allowing the parent bass to spawn unmolested and protect the young until they are able to care for themselves. With this additional protection the commission does not deem it necessary to annually replenish waters already inhabited by bass, but to stock only those waters that have become depleted and this practice with the limited number of bass fry that can be produced at its hatcheries.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP DRIVE TO BE LAUNCHED

Judge Alton B. Parker, chairman of the Department of Political Education of the National Civic Federation, will preside and make the opening address at the first meeting of the organization on Thursday and Friday, January 28 and 29, which will be held at the Biltmore in New York city.

A proposal will be considered to launch a nation-wide "Good Citizenship" drive with special reference to the 1928 primaries. The speakers will include Elihu Root, Governor Alfred E. Smith, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois; Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Miss Sarah Schuyler Butler, vice chairman of New York State Republican Committee.

MORE BROWN TROUT.

Commission Increases Its Supply of Hatchery Stock.

Albany, Jan. 27.—To meet the ever increasing demand for brown trout by the sportsmen of the state, the Conservation Commission is increasing its stock of this fish at its Catskills and Cold Spring Harbor hatcheries. The brown trout is becoming more popular with the sportsmen every year, and by introducing them into streams that have become unsuitable for brook trout, by reason of increased temperature or for other causes, a good substitute is provided for the native species.

While a majority also preference to the native brook trout, yet the brown trout grows to a larger size and is harder, surviving in waters which would not support brook trout life.

During the past year the number of applications for brown trout received by the Commission has been tripled—another evidence of the increased popularity of the species.

In fact, in order to meet the demands for this species the commission was obliged to purchase 500,000 eggs of brown trout in addition to the regular hatchery stock.

"GROWING BACKBONE"

No. 4 P. T. A. Hears Interesting Paper on Important Subject.

The January meeting of the P. T. A. of School No. 4 was held on Tuesday afternoon. The opening program consisted of three very pleasing numbers, given by girls from the fourth and ninth rooms; a recitation, "The Duel," by Eugene Field, given by Dorothy Vandemark of Room 4; "It" by Rudyard Kipling given by Ruth Greenburgh of Room 3, and "Spring Hare" by eight girls from Room 4.

It was voted to subscribe for the magazine "The Normal Instructor" for the use of the teachers, also to buy ten boxes of straws for the children's milk and some new march records for the school orchestra.

An article from the Child Welfare magazine entitled "Growing Backbone" by Mary S. Hasland was read by Mrs. A. M. Cragin. The problem of growing good sturdy spines in boys and girls who will be capable of stiffening against unworthy purposes and enable them to be upright men and women in a world of too much crookedness, shuffling and evasion. Certain optimists declare that a naughty child is an ill child, hence the parent has only to raise healthy little animals who will naturally develop into moral adults. We know many tantrums in children have their source in upset nerves and disordered stomachs, but the physical superiority of a Jack Dempsey hardly makes him the moral equal of the tubercular Robert Lewis. Criminals are not remarkable for their ill health nor are the world's heroes noticeably stronger or healthier than the rest of us. Our forefathers had great faith in moral precept and compelled their children to listen to long sermons, memorize whole chapters in the Bible and copy in their writing books such maxims as "Honesty in the best policy." Yet precept alone is often ineffective and dangerous. Nothing is more revolting than the psalm singing sinner or more disheartening than to know the right and lack the moral strength to follow it. Many repeat the half truth that "character is taught not bought" and stress example, still many an honest father has gone bad for a fleeting sin. Many an unselfish mother has wept over the ingratitude of a selfish daughter while those who have worked in city slums have often found charming children in most depraved homes. The great discovery in child training during the last 50 years is that health, precept and example must find expression in the joyous doing of the right thing. Only by being encouraged and helped to practice daily acts of kindness, truth, helpfulness and courage will they learn to be kind, brave, helpful and honest. Moral strength does not like "Topsy" "just grow." It is acquired like all worth while things are by the daily striving of mind, body and heart toward a conscientiously understood and sought ideal.

These papers give a picture and a story that no editor has known and no statesman has guessed. You will see in them facts about your government that no school book has taught and no history has told.

You will see the whole drama of American Government. You will see how a candidate for President is selected—how his nomination is secured—how his election is managed.

You see how a President's Cabinet is chosen; how Ambassadors are made; how important legislation is conceived and enacted—and over all this you see the shadow of an approaching war—a war which House foresaw and warned Wilson was coming. You see House go to Europe in an effort to avert war. He talks to King George; to Lord George; to the Kaiser—in Wilson's name, for these men

—Wilson and House—were your Government. When you read this simple account of vital happenings in American History; when you see this picture of the real Woodrow Wilson; when you read this accurate reporting of how a republic functions in great crises—you will know the answer to questions which have been for years the subject of argument, conjecture and dispute.

Gayest Dress Trimming Is Favored in London

This season appears to be the season for gay trimmings, according to the majority of the displays, notes a London fashion correspondent.

Dress decoration never has been brighter than now, and dress creators compete with one another in evolving new and original effects. Bold trimmings in elaborate designs in gold and silver, and brocades in many colors in large patterns which scintillate in the artificial light are exceedingly popular, and are to be found on evening and dance frocks worn at clubs.

There is no rule concerning the position of the decoration, and the creator may decide which he thinks best. Although Paris has shown many back treatments, there does not appear to be the same enthusiasm for this mode in London, as there is nothing else so destructive to the fresh look of a dress, flounce or bow as being set upon. Therefore the majority of gowns show all the trimming in front.

As an example, a black evening gown displayed a full apron across the front hemmed with black fur, and almost covered with vivid tangerine-colored beads and paillettes arranged in mass formation on the surface. Another model was covered with a patchwork design executed in bits of different-colored tissues. Patchwork, incidentally, appears to be the most fashionable form of decoration for this season.

Mosaic designs in beads and tassels are gaining in favor, while flower motifs very often are finished in the center with a silk or pearl tassel in an outstanding color. Long streamers are attached to the shoulders of evening gowns, and knotted together in the center of the back.

One feather waving on the shoulder is gaining in popularity in place of the much-worn flowers, for trimming dance frocks.

Brief Fashion Notes of ### Interest to All Women

The dictum that the evening toilet must sparkle has been applied to bandeaux as well as to frocks, vanity bags and other evening toilet accessories.

The majority of the new bandeaux are made of silver filigree set with rhinestones. Some, however, are mounted on net or gold or silver brocade. The latest examples come well down to the eyebrows in front.

It was thought that it was impossible for designers to get skirts much shorter, but they have done so. They have accomplished this object by shortening the hemline on one side and lengthening it at the other, thus striking the same general balance as before, but giving a glimpse of one knee, which otherwise would be in obscurity.

Similar effects without corresponding revelations are accomplished by the use of panels of different lengths.

When it rains or snows it's bad for this hose. They quickly become spotted in the back, even when walking is confined to crossing a sidewalk. To obviate this trouble an English dealer has originated the "back spot." This is a covering of very thin rubber which matches the stocking and is caught around ankle and calf, appearing only in the back.

Among the many fanciful shoes now popular, none is more eagerly sought than the pump of black patent leather with insertions of real leopard skin at the sides. For evening wear, these insertions are replaced on gold brocade shoes by satin stamped to resemble leopard and outlined with gold kid.

Even though women have long been emancipated they still wear the gaiter with evening costumes. This is one of the newest features of the new year's fashions. The gaiter is made of a different shade than that of the gown. Sometimes they are formed of the spot delicate of lace.

Luther Demands Confidence Vote

Chancellor Luther Insists Upon a Vote of Confidence—Reprimands Socialist Leader for Attack on Mussolini.

Berlin, Jan. 27.—Chancellor Luther demanded a vote of confidence in the Reichstag today.

"We must insist upon a positive vote of confidence and if we don't get it we will decline all work," said the chancellor.

Luther made a furious impromptu speech in the Reichstag in which he attacked the crisis of his cabinet.

"Germany must be governed some how," he declared. "We decline to sit on the back stair with a lack of confidence."

"If we join the league we must be honest partners," said Dr. Luther.

He reprimanded the Socialist leader, Mueller, for his attack upon Mussolini.

"We do not want to be a government which is tolerated, but we want to be borne by the confidence of the majority of the German people," the chancellor continued.

Mueller, who was formerly Socialist chancellor, had derided Nationalist plans for a dictatorship. He ridiculed Mussolini and said his speeches "do not reveal a strong dictatorship but the stupid bullying of a mentally and morally unbalanced man."

Count Westarp, Nationalist leader, attacked the League plan as "unbearable of fulfillment" and urged that the government notify the Allies.

He denounced the Allies' failure to disarm and said that all powers, including the United States, are continuing to build armaments, while Germany is disarming.

Veteran Intended Divorce Courts To "Get" Smith Legalize Polygamy

Because He Had Failed To Receive a Bonus Check—Governor Was Late In Arriving and Possible Assault Averted.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—What might have resulted in an assault on Governor Al Smith was averted today because the executive was late in arriving at his office in the Capitol.

A shell shocked World War veteran whose name was not divulged forced his way past the outside attendant, ran through the secretary's room and into the governor's private office. The office was vacant as the governor had not arrived from the Executive Mansion.

George B. Graves, secretary to the governor, hurried the veteran from the executive's office down the secret stairway in the rear and thence into the prison department on the first floor.

Graves said the veteran mumbled something about "getting the governor" because he had failed to receive a bonus check.

The ex-soldier was taken by officials of the prison department to the Albany commissioner of charities where he will be cared for until his relatives can be notified.

Assemblyman William C. McCree, Democrat of Kings, who was sitting in the outer executive office when the veteran rushed through the chamber, followed him into the secretary's room. At that time, however, Secretary Graves had started the man down the secret stairway.

"Masonic Club Dance."

The Masonic Club will hold a dance for its members and friends at the club rooms on Friday evening of this week. Zuma's orchestra will furnish the music.

Assemblyman Hackenburg, who would invalidate divorces obtained in Mexico, France by residents of New York state.

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Declaring that polygamy has been legalized through divorce courts Assemblyman Hackenburg, New York Democrat, today introduced in the legislature, a bill, which if enacted, would invalidate divorces obtained in France and Mexico by residents of New York state, unless based on statutory grounds recognized here.

"The old-fashioned marriage, cornerstone of our society, is being threatened with complete disappearance in the changing tide of customs, manners and convenience," said Hackenburg.

"Fashions in divorces change just the same as do fashions in clothes. Ten years ago it was Rome, today Paris is the cesspool of the maladjusted, shrieking and lacerated matrimonial gambler."

"Friend wife is getting her divorce while on a three day shopping tour in Paris, and friend husband is getting his divorce by mail from Yucatan."

"Getting rid of an inconvenient spouse is as easy as bootlegging. All you need is the money."

Republican legislative leaders smiled when they read the Hackenburg bill.

Protecting Female Prisoners.

Albany, Jan. 27.—Male employees in jails would be prohibited from entering a cell occupied by a woman prisoner unless accompanied by a woman attendant, under a bill introduced today by Senator Brown, Republican of Schoharie.

Markle May Modify Plan

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 27.—The latest joint conference of anthracite miners and operators prepared to open up a new line of negotiations today in an attempt to settle the coal strike.

With the "peace plans" of E. J. Lynett, Scranton publisher, formally rejected in their present form as a "basis for negotiations" by the operators, the table was officially cleared of pending proposals. Unconfirmed reports were in circulation that Alvan Markle, chairman of the conference, was to submit a modified form of his plan which was voted down at the New York parley.

While the official statement of the first meeting at the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel apparently reflected continuation of the "deadlock," an optimistic note was registered in the announcement that it was agreed that the conference would meet daily from 1:30 p. m. to 6 p. m. in an effort to strike "common ground."

The question of publicity for the meetings was passed upon. Assurance of a statement by James A. Gorman, neutral secretary, including reports of votes taken during these sessions, was decided upon. A proposal to admit the press to the hearings was voted down by the operators yesterday.

TO BENEFIT CHILDREN
DOWN OUT OF MEDICAL

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Under a bill introduced in the legislature by Senator Wales, Republican of Seneca, a child born out of wedlock would be entitled to "support and education from both parents and shall inherit from each." The measure would add a new section to the New York inheritance law.

MRS. KELLER "NOT GUILTY" BECAUSE OF INSANITY.

Sandusky, Ohio, Jan. 27.—A verdict of "not guilty because of insanity" was returned today by a jury in the case of Mrs. Mary Keller, charged with the murder of her daughter, Fay Elizabeth, 7.

The verdict strikes with it conviction in the state hospital for the insane. Mrs. Keller confessed she killed the child because she did not want her to face the kind of a life she had to face—"poor, without love and with constant family bickering."

READABLE HISTORY

New York state has a history, interesting if told in an interesting way and doubly interesting in these days when people travel and actually see the places they have read about. To the tourist familiar with the history of places he visits, his trip is much more interesting by this knowledge.

The great highway system of New York is attracting tourists from our own and other states to enjoy our lakes, mountains, hills and valleys and the wonderful scenic beauty of which poets sing but the inhabitants forget. These great highways pass along the early Indian trails which lead through the very centers of the early Indian and colonial history of our state. Many fine monuments, markers or tablets have been erected along these improved highways, and many more should be erected, so that the tourists, who are not in a race against time or driving at reckless speed, may pause a moment and read the inscription which tells that at that place at some time in the past.

To furnish this history in interesting form, The Freeman, in combination with a number of the leading newspapers of New York state, has engaged the services of Frederic A. Godcharles, author of a similar history of Pennsylvania, to write a series of daily stories of the history of New York. Readers will enjoy these stories; their interest in the ultimate history of our state in its relation to the nation will be increased many fold and they will be proud of the leading and important part which New York has played in the great story of the United States.

Each of these daily stories will be published on the anniversary of the episode or narrative, and at the end of the year they can be arranged chronologically and, when mounted in book form, they will comprise a most unique history of the Empire State. Educators everywhere are interested in Mr. Godcharles's historical stories and are awaiting them with earnest anticipation. They will be valuable to teacher and scholar alike. Father, mother and each of their sons and daughters will be interested, not only in reading them each day, but in viewing with each other in an effort to produce the most complete and attractive assembled volume of these short stories. No family in New York can afford to miss a single story, and we venture the prediction that not many will overlook this opportunity. There never has been anything like it offered to the reading public of our great state. The first story will appear in The Freeman on February 1.

Mayor Walker of New York, author of "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May," probably has not yet found a quiet moment in which to wonder whether he will be as popular at the end of his term as at the beginning, or to reflect that the lasting regard of the public is even less to be depended on than that of an untired lover.

It may well be doubted whether Kentucky Republicans will be in haste to agree with John W. Langley—who is to spend two years in a Federal prison—that "our party" owes it to "us" to send his wife to Washington as Representative in his place. The results of the "vindication" of her impeached husband by the election of Governor "Ma" Ferguson of Texas can hardly be said to apply a satisfactory precedent.

The new French Ambassador, Senator Heranger, is also an author, but to inquiring reporters who met his ship he said: "I do not write. That is for the young and the old. I am no longer young and I am not yet old—that is, I hope so." It would be interesting to have so notable a statement in more complete form and he mean to imply that the young write because they can not help it, and the old because they have both desire and memory?

Having told two women contending for one child that neither should have it, a Detroit judge mentioned to a ready smiling picture operator in return, "and one woman was"

voaled in tears and the other apparently unmoved. The pictures are to be used as an aid to the judge in reaching his decision, but can they prove more than that one woman had self-control and the other lacked grip on her hysterical ducts? Modern conditions will hardly permit of a successful adaptation of King Solomon's plan.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

(Registered in accordance with the Copyright Act)
KEEPING YOUNG.

In these days no one seems to be really growing old owing to the measures used by both sexes to keep ahead of it. Men will dress younger, shave oftener, have his hair trimmed more frequently, will indulge in massage and Turkish baths. Women will, well I don't really know what they do to tell the truth, but from the appearance standpoint our women folks certainly keep young looking.

However in this age business more than appearance counts, because when old age begins to creep on, it is just as well to recognize it and safeguard the health. In other days gray hair, loss of hair, stiffened joints, were all considered as an evidence of age, whereas we know that gray hair comes on very early in some families, as does loss of hair also, and stiff joints can occur any time in our lives.

It isn't these apparent outward evidences of age you should have in mind, but the condition of your blood vessels, your heart, your kidneys, and your mind itself.

The hardening that may start in your arteries may be due to errors about diet, especially overeating. Your kidneys may not be doing their work quite so well for the same reason, because you are eating too much meat, which while perfectly safe for a hard working mechanic, is not good for an office man past middle life.

As to the mind there may be the little lapses of memory, forgetting names, telling the same story to the same folks frequently, and perhaps a little less control of temper.

The point then is to recognize these symptoms and get your family doctor to overhaul you. Something may be hurrying old age on before its time.

Usually old age can be postponed somewhat by a little more thought about the body. A little less food, a little more walking outdoors. An interest in something that is for the help of the community, a hobby in fact, has kept many a man or woman young, when their business or household life's work was done.

Will Continue World Service

Lutherans Vote to Raise Funds for Relief Operations in Europe and in Foreign Mission Fields.

New York, Jan. 27.—The National Lutheran Council, meeting in annual executive session at the Hotel Astor, New York, voted to continue its program of Lutheran World Service, expending a minimum of $200,000 throughout 1926. Of this sum $75,000 was allocated for the relief of "captive" Lutheran foreign mission fields in Africa, India and China, $50,000 for the aid of the hard pressed Lutheran Church of Russia, and the remainder to be divided among minority groups of Lutherans in the smaller countries of Europe who have suffered most disastrously from the war and are faced with problems of reconstruction, for the relief of deserving and needy students in Germany, Russia and the smaller countries of Europe who are preparing for trained service, for the maintenance of Church Free Tables, and for the assistance of needy inner mission institutions in Germany.

Aid During 1926.
On recommendation of the executive director, the Rev. Dr. John A. Morehead, New York, the foreign mission fields will receive approximately the following aid during 1926: Berlin Mission in South China, $10,000; Brekum Mission in China, $2,000; the Finnish Mission in Southwest Africa, $7,000; the Hermannsburg Mission in South Africa, $15,000; the Gussner Mission in India, $40,000; the Hanover Mission in South Africa, $500; and the Hildesheim Mission for the Blind in China, $200.

The members of the Council approved a plan for the use of funds in the treasury to carry out half of this program and authorized that "on the basis of the Foreign Mission and the Russian need, an appeal for $100,000 shall be submitted to the officials of the general bodies cooperating in the National Lutheran Council, asking them to secure, by such methods as they approve, their proportionate shares of this amount."

A request for the establishment of American Churches for the convenience of American Lutheran people residing in the capitals of Europe was referred to the presidents of American Lutheran bodies for consideration and action.

Celebrate Anniversary of Catechism.
The executive director of the Council was authorized to lay plans for the celebration throughout the United States and Canada of the 400th anniversary in 1928 of the publication of Luther's Catechism. Commenting on this anniversary, which will be observed generally by 90 million Lutherans throughout the world, the Rev. Dr. F. H. Knutson, New York, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, declared:

"We are living in a day when confessional statements are not the fashion outside of the Lutheran Church. There is tremendous necessity that we place before the eyes of the deluded public the value of confessions in general for Christian life."

A proposal to institute during 1929 an extended program of billboard and car-card advertising throughout the United States and Canada was offered by the Rev. Dr. C. C. Hein, Columbus, Ohio, president of the Lutheran Joint Synod of Ohio, and was received with favor. Dr. Hein's plan calls for advertising the texts of and the comments of Martin Luther upon the Ten Commandments, the Apostles' Creed and the Lord's Prayer, and particular attention to Lutheran interpretation of Baptism and Holy Communion.

JACKSONVILLE TO N. Y. C. PLANNED IN TEN HOURS

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 27.—An effort to fly from Jacksonville to New York city in ten hours was planned by Lieutenant George R. Pond, pilot of the giant tri-motored Fokker monoplane which took off from a local field at 6:15 o'clock this morning, carrying three passengers.

The plane's average cruising speed is 125 miles an hour. Completion of the trip within ten hours will be a deciding factor in the establishment of a new commercial air line between New York and Florida by Colonel John A. Hambleton, Baltimore banker and head of an aircraft corporation.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

HELP NOT WANTED.

The Indian population of America in Revolutionary days never received the attention it deserved in the books from which most of us learned about the struggle for independence. It deserves attention not because of any large contribution which it made to the success of the struggle, but because of the great anxiety which it caused at all times to the Revolutionary leaders. They were one of the big problems of the war and to appreciate fully the achievement of the patriots in gaining independence we should know of all the problems which beset them.

"I am a little embarrassed to know in what manner to conduct myself with respect to the Coghna-waga Indians now here," wrote Washington to General Philip Schuyler, 150 years ago today. "They have, notwithstanding the treaty of neutrality, which I find they entered into with you the other day, agreed to what appears to be the sense of Congress, signified to me a desire of taking up arms in behalf of the United Colonies—My embarrassment does not proceed so much from the propriety of encouraging these patriots to depart from their neutrality or rather accepting their own voluntary offer, as from the expense which probably may follow a sensible plan, if they do not desire to be idle, they will be for or against us. I am sensible also, that no artifices will be left untried to engage them against us. Their proffered services, therefore, ought not to be rejected; but how far—ought to go, is the question that puzzles me. I will endeavor however, to please them by yielding in appearance to their demands."

Said Schuyler in reply: "If we can get decently rid of their offer, I would prefer it to employing them. The expense we are at in the Indian department is amazing; it will be more so when they consider themselves as in our service."

The great desire of the red men was to establish close relationships with the Continental supply department. It was plain that they did not "desire to be idle," but that they would certainly ally themselves with the highest bidder for their favor. It was known that enemy agents were

Disease Placard
Not a Disgrace

It is for the Protection of Others, Especially Children. States Dr. Nicoll in Radio Health Talk Over Station WGY.

In his last health talk, broadcast from Station WGY, Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health, told his listeners of the "Significance of a Communicable Disease Placard." He emphasized the point that such a sign posted on the house is not a symbol of disgrace but is to protect others, especially children, who might become infected if they visited that home.

"Many of our otherwise best citizens," said Dr. Nicoll, "have at times voiced personal objection to the placarding to their homes for communicable diseases. They seem to think that a sign on the door stating that scarlet fever, diphtheria, measles or some other contagious disease is present is a mark of disgrace and do their utmost to avoid it. Some people have even been known not to call a doctor when one of the children suffered with some ailment which they feared would cause the house to be placarded. Such a policy is of course foolish in the extreme, merely to avoid the inconvenience of a sign these people are risking the sacrifice of a human life."

Why Placards Are Posted.

"Now just why should a house be placarded? The regulations of the State Sanitary Code require that when certain diseases exist in a household a warning shall be posted. This is not done to disgrace the family, neither is it intended to hurt the business in which the members of the family may be engaged. It is done so that others may know that there is a catching disease which may be prevented. It is the starting point of other cases, particularly among children, for most of the diseases for which placards are required are those to which children are most susceptible."

"If those who oppose placarding their premises will think about the matter only for a moment their opposition will vanish. Your child has a catching disease, therefore he caught it somewhere—perhaps in a playmate's home which had not been placarded. If that house had had a communicable disease placard on the door your little one would be well today. Then why take the chance of infecting other children when to some extent this may be prevented by a placard?"

Real Message of Placard.

"Recently one of the nurses of the State Department of Health in explaining to a mother the reason for a placard said, 'The only thing this card does is to tell the world that your child has been unfortunate enough to contract a communicable disease, but that you will do everything you can to keep other children from catching it.'"

"The foundation of nearly all religions is the 'Golden Rule' or words akin to it: 'Do unto others as you would have others do unto you.' Therefore, if you would have others protect your child, 'Go thou and do likewise.'"

Policyholders Pay
Big State TaxesNew York State Special Insurance
Taxes Far Exceed Cost of Maintaining Insurance Department—Policyholders Pay State Heavily
for Privilege of Carrying Insurance.Washington, Jan. 27.—Insurance companies doing business in the state of New York were required to pay special state insurance taxes for 1924 amounting to $6,509,525.99 in addition to normal tax assessments, according to a bulletin issued by the Insurance Department of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. Less than 10 per cent of this sum, collected in the form of insurance licenses, special taxes and fees, was used for the expenses of the state insurance department, and the remainder went into the general
state funds.As pointed out by the chamber's insurance department, the levying of special imposts upon insurance companies is a direct burden upon policy holders as the insurance companies include the amount thus paid to the states in the cost of insurance.
The attitude of the National Chamber toward the question of special state insurance taxes is summed up as follows:"Special state taxes now levied on policyholders through insurance companies should not be considered as a source of general revenue but should be reduced to the total in each state which will adequately support such state's departmental supervision, and a uniform principle of taxing the holders of insurance should be adopted throughout the states."According to the figures in the bulletin American policyholders carried more insurance in 1924 than ever before, the premiums paid being 6.5 per cent larger than the preceding year. The special insurance taxes collected by the states during the same period, the bulletin says,
were 13 per cent greater than in 1923. These imposts, it is stated, do not include the taxes paid by insurance companies in common with other forms of business.After pointing out that the federal government abolished the special imposts levied upon policyholders in the form of a premium tax in 1921,
the bulletin goes on to say that there is increased tendency on the part of the states to levy special insurance taxes.The known amount of these special insurance taxes collected by the various states in 1924 amounted to $67,721,570.46, which was an increase of $3,000,000 over the amount collected in the preceding year, according to the bulletin. This sum, it is pointed out, would pay an annual premium for more than four million ordinary life insurance policies issued at the age 25 for $1,000 each or would have bought fire insurance covering for one year on $7,500,000,000 worth of property
at the average rate of 83 cents per $100.It is the contention of the Chamber's Insurance Department that when policyholders are singled out for special taxation, the amounts collected should be used for their benefit. Actually this is not the case. The amount expended by the states for the maintenance of insurance departments in 1924 was less than four per cent of all the money
collected in the form of special taxes.
In other words, out of every dollar
paid to the states by policyholders, more than 96 cents was used for general purposes, none of which was so closely related to insurance as to justify taxation of policyholders for its support.HOME SERVICE PROGRAM

Catch Cold Quickly

INTERESTING NEW FACTS

Some people can go through a winter without catching cold.
Others suffer from one cold after another. Why is it? Simply because some people can't resist germs which float about in the air. Strengthen the blood with RILAN Tablets and you'll be surprised how you can keep free from cold attacks. And you need not worry about getting the "flu." Just ask your druggist for RILAN Ta-

BUILDINGGAINS ARE MADE
IN ROAD BUILDINGForty-eight states, in conjunction with the bureau of public roads, Department of Agriculture, are rounding
out their first decade of modern road building with gratifying results, according to a statement issued by the American Association of State Highway Officials.The interstate system, however, on which state and federal governments have been working jointly, is not more than half complete, and suggestions of curtailment of the general program for the purpose of economy
have served to arouse public interest in pushing on toward completion of the remaining half.In some quarters the question of constitutionality of the present federal-aid road program has again been raised, which highway officials hold is irrelevant in view of the exhaustive studies that were made before the program was put into effect.In response to points raised, highway officials in their statement call public attention to the fact that "there were those in the beginning of our national life who had visions of interstate highways as nation developers,
for as early as 1806 the Cumberland
pike was planned by congress. Jefferson, Hamilton, Madison, Clay, Calhoun and Webster all maintained a constitutional authority, as well as the national need, for federal activities in highway improvements.""But a short time after the construction of the Cumberland pike it was turned over to the states, which likewise became weary and in turn passed it on to toll companies. And then for half a century the much vaunted local control was given a most excellent tryout. The result of all of which was that the only free public highways for years were those which were impassable during the unseasonable weather.""It was not until 1861 that the states began a real program of road construction, and New Jersey has the honor of being the first state to create a state highway department. Two years afterward the federal government appropriated $10,000 to establish the office of road inquiry, and for eight years it kept on inquiring. At the end of that time the name of this office
was changed to the office of public roads. The constant growth of state highway departments naturally gave a larger vision of the highway departments and in 1912 the congress created a commission to investigate the problem as to whether the federal government had a real duty in the matter.""For three years this committee made a thorough investigation and finally gave a favorable report. In 1916 the congress made its first real appropriation for highways. Recent discussions on the floor of congress
as well as certain public addresses and published articles would lead some to believe that the congress had not made a thorough investigation of this subject. The personnel of the congress has changed greatly since the report of the 1916 committee.
There are now but four of this committee—two senators and two members of the house—in government service, who were members of that committee of ten. And so, it is necessary to recall some things which it was supposed had been thoroughly
established in the public mind."Trees Along Highways
Will Not Injure PavingThe planting of trees by state highway departments and by local government subdivisions is attracting much and favorable attention. Experts declare that if the trees are set back far enough their roots will not injure road pavements.It was contended at one time that tree roots and the shade caused by the branches were detrimental to modern paving, but experience in many cases now where highways have been built along beautiful tree-lined roads has completely exploded this idea.According to the A. A. A., however, judgment should be used in the planting of trees so that they will not act
as wind breakers, particularly in the northern states in the snow belt.

Build Roads for Trucks

According to Mexican reports
the motor truck has awakened the necessity of improving roads in the vicinity of Mexico, which is considered one of the richest mining regions in the land of the Aztecs. Some time ago a road was completed between El Paso and El Paso. The construction of this road created unlimited enthusiasm and the outlook for the truck as a real factor in road-building is very bright.

Good Roads Facts

It needs small effort to persuade the salesman who travels the rural districts in an automobile that an improvement in the highways he travels would result in greater earnings for himself. Now calls per day, ten-cent repair bills, greater demand for to make trips by the future in the state, all these would result in saves.

A bowling green may be of various sizes. Usually they are from 40 to 50 yards square. Each square affords ample room for playing a match of 20 or 40 yards for "long" and "jack" is quite enough to play over.

GROB DOES JUGGLING ACT WITH TED MOORE

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—Harry Grob, Pittsburgh's clowning world's championship juggler, today was en route to San Francisco today on another leg of his western vaudeville tour, following a 10 round performance here last night in which he did a juggling act with Ted Moore of England. Grob soaked Moore half senseless in the opening round, knocking the British gentleman into the ring where he reeled until the big hearted champion lifted him to safety. From then on Moore was in a bit of a fog, although he managed to poke Grob a few hard ones in the following rounds when the champion turned to greet old friends in the audience.

WALKER SAYS BOXING COMMISSION WILL STAND.

New York, Jan. 27.—Mayor James J. Walker, of New York father of the present boxing law here, today gave his assurance to fans that, in his opinion, neither the state athletic commission would be disturbed nor the law abolished by legislative action. His statement came in reply to reports that a special committee, headed by Charles E. Hughes, planned to transfer the control of boxing from the commission to another state department, leading to the amendment or abolition of the boxing law. He said that such a transfer of authority could not be effected without abolishing the statute and that he believed such a step was farthest from the minds of the legislators in Albany.

Boy Scout Drive February 7-13

Campaign for Funds During Sixteenth Anniversary Week—Expenditures Will be Kept at Minimum—Plan for Boy Scout Lodge.

The Ulster County Council of the Boy Scouts of America held a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms on Broadway on Tuesday evening. There was a good attendance and much interest was shown in the planning of the Council's activities for 1926.

The committee on employing a new executive reported that it had considered several candidates and expected to secure a competent man within the next two weeks.

The camp committee was instructed to draw up plans and specifications for a permanent building or lodge, proposed to be erected on the camp site on the Wallkill river, to be used as a dining room and a meeting place on rainy days.

The lodge in the opinion of those present should be about 25 by 45 feet, have a large fire place and a kitchen adjoining, and when this project is carried to completion, it will add greatly to the attraction of the camp.

It was voted to conduct a campaign throughout the county to secure finances for 1926, the date of the campaign being fixed for the week of February 7 to 13. This is the sixteenth Anniversary Week for Boy Scouts and will have nationwide celebration.

E. K. Jordan from the National Council is here to act as campaign director, at no expense to the local council, and it was voted to incur no expense for dinners during the campaign, so that the expense of the campaign will be reduced to a minimum. The entire amount secured can practically be used for the promotion of council activities.

Farm Bureau to Meet at Modena

The annual winter meeting of the Modena-Plattekill Farm and Home Bureaus will be held at Modena Inn on Friday, January 29, at 1:30 p. m. Three very excellent speakers will have a part on the program, which will be of interest to both women and men alike. Evelyn Nance, Home Bureau manager, will speak on the subject "Foods Make a Difference." Her subject will be of special interest to members of the Home Bureau nutrition class. The second speaker will be Professor Crosby, entomologist at Cornell University, who will cover points of interest on "Control of Fruit Insects and Diseases," particularly the control measures necessary in handling pear pyra, apple maggot and side worm. N. H. Harpp, blaster rust specialist, is the third speaker on the program and will talk on "Reforestation and Land Improvement for Ulster County." Mr. Harpp has had four years work in the Hudson valley. He will outline the details involved in the purchase, planting and protection of trees for reforestation purposes. Every land owner in the community owns some waste land which should be producing some kind of forest product.

COBB, SPEAKER AND COLLINS ON VALUABLE LIST.

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 27.—Baseball's hall of fame has three new figures officially today, although they have long been among the immortals of the diamond without actual standing. Tyrus Raymond Cobb, Tris Speaker and Eddie Collins have been added to the roster of the American League's "most valuable players" list from which they were barred under the rules that player-managers were ineligible. The official stamp was placed as an aftermath of their unofficial standing in an automobile popularity contest in which sporting editors were the judges. The contest stopped after three years before the war.

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 27.—After a series of lavish entertainments Osborne Wood, son of Major General Leonard Wood, governor of the Philippines, was missing from his usual haunts here today.

The management of the Poinciana hotel, one of the most expensive hotels here, refused to comment on whether or not Wood's son was said when he left.
